MENTAL HEALTH AWARENESS WEEK 13 - 19 MAY 2024

Mental Health Awareness Week 2024 will take place from 13th to 19th May, on the theme of “Movement: Moving more for our mental health”.

Movement is important for our mental health. But so many of us struggle to move enough. We know there are many different reasons for this, so this Mental Health Awareness Week we want to help people to find moments for movement in their daily routines. Going for a walk in your neighbourhood, putting on your favourite music and dancing around the living room, chair exercises when you’re watching television – it all counts!

Meaningful May 2024

Why we walk to school

Walking is the easiest, cheapest, and most accessible form of exercise, so why wouldn't we encourage more children to do more of it? One in five boys and one in six girls of primary school-age aren't active for at least 60 minutes a day, the level recommended by the Chief Medical Officers to stay healthy and happy. But walking, wheeling, cycling or scooting to school is an easy way to get those active minutes adding up.

Currently less than half of children walk to school, despite most families living within two miles of their closest primary school. Walking is not only good for children's bodies, but also for their mind and mood. The potential mental health benefits of encouraging your children to walk to school from a young age and instilling healthy habits for life are significant.

Walking to school is a great way for children to spend time with their family, friends or carers. Getting active on the journey to school can boost a child's imagination and creativity before the school day even begins, with it being shown that children who walk to school arrive feeling more refreshed, alert and ready to learn.

Plus swapping the school run for a school walk, means there are fewer cars, less congestion and less air pollution outside the school gates.

What's not to love?

Why not try walking every day and see the difference it can make to your lives?

Between 15th May and 15th June, the Oral Health Foundation will be shining a light on the importance of brushing our teeth.

There are four key messages to promote for better oral health:

- 1) Brush teeth for two minutes, last thing at night and one other time during the day, with a fluoride toothpaste.
- 2) Clean between your teeth every day.
- 3) Cut down how much and how often you have sugary foods and drinks.
- 4) Visit a dentist regularly (at least twice a year).
